THE RAZORBACKS

2009 Preview

When the University of Arkansas soccer team takes the field for its Aug. 21 season opener against Michigan, it will be under the direction of first-year Razorback head coach Erin Aubry. After a spring season of four exhibition matches and the new coaching staff getting familiar with the players, and vice versa, the Razorbacks are set to provide a follow-up to their performance from last season, in which they equaled the program mark with 11 victories.

"There is a tremendous excitement about this season from, both, the players and the coaching staff," Aubry said. "There are some high expectations that the players are putting on themselves and that we, as the coaching staff, are putting on them, too, because of that excitement. It will, no doubt, be a growing year as you want all seasons to be, but this particular season, it will come from this team's growth as competitors."

The coaching staff, which also includes assistant coaches Christine Liberto and Tim Nowak, will work with a 2009 squad that features a true mix of veterans and newcomers. The Arkansas roster features 14 upperclassmen and 13 freshmen and sophomores.

As always, leadership will be essential as the team builds chemistry through the non-conference season in preparation for Southeastern Conference action. The charge of leadership will start with the Razorbacks' four-member senior class comprised of Kat Moffett, Kathleen Paulsen, Kim Schleif and Sophie Wentz. Collectively, the seniors have started 121 games during their respective careers in the Cardinal and White.

"This senior class is unbelievably special," Aubry said. "They want to go out making a difference and impact, and if they haven't already, they certainly will."

Paulsen is one of the team's top returning scorers from last season when she netted a career-best four goals, two of which were game-winning strikes, from her midfield position. In addition to her creative playmaking prowess, Aubry is also drawn to Paulsen's innate ability to be a great teammate.

"(Kathleen) will do anything for the success of this team, this program and the University of Arkansas," Aubry said. "She's going to provide a tremendous amount of leadership at the midfield. She's also very versatile so she'll see more time this season in an attacking mentality than she has in past seasons. She's too creative to hold in one place so we plan on releasing a caged animal, as we've called it."

Arkansas can also expect to be guided by its talented junior class that includes Kelly O'Connor and Britni Williams. Since the two arrived on campus, they have made an undeniable impact on the Razorback soccer program. O'Connor is the team's top returning scorer from 2008 with five goals, while Williams is set to resume her role in between the posts at the back of Arkansas' defense. She has started all 39 matches of her collegiate career.

"Obviously, we're excited to have Britni Williams step in for us again," Aubry said. "She's done a great job in goal for the past two years, and, obviously, we want her to step in for us this season."

With O'Connor leading the offensive charge, the Razorbacks return 65 percent of their goal scoring—22 of 34 goals scored—from last season. Arkansas will look to supplement any scoring lost from a year ago with its strong transfer group of Kelsey Allison, Laurel Pastor and Chelsea Tidwell.

Pastor tallied nine goals and 20 points last season while attending Virginia Commonwealth University where she was a member of the All-Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) first team. Tidwell spent her freshman season as the second-leading scorer at Winthrop University and a member of the Big South All-Freshman team. Always looking to set things up for her teammates, Allison was Oklahoma's assist leader in 2008.

With nine of its 13 underclassmen yet to play in a collegiate match, Arkansas will have plenty of youth to bring along and fold into the mix. This year's incoming class of freshmen consists of Allie Chandler, Sami Pesek, Valerie Powell, Kate Singleton and Tara Zika. Shelby Campbell, who joins the team as a sophomore, rounds out the newcomers to the Razorbacks.

"Allie is a special type of player," Aubry said. "We talk about creativity and courage to go to goal, and she's the epitome of that. You don't look at her and think 'that kid is going to rule the floor' but she does. Always with freshmen, the hardest thing is consistency but she's going to be someone the fans will enjoy watching."

The coaching staff is dedicated to putting the right people in the right position for team success and if the spring season is any indication, the Razorbacks can look forward to a 2009 full of growth and accomplishment.

"The growth we made this spring was off the charts," Aubry said. "I can't fully articulate how happy and euphoric we are about what we did and the transitions we made during the spring. Starting the spring season, I thought it would be a far greater uphill battle to get the team to be more creative."

"Our growth for this fall and, the upcoming year, will be about knowledge and about understanding the time and place for that creativity. Our philosophy coming in was to change the mentality and now we have to educate."

GOALKEEPERS

The group charged with keeping the ball out of the Arkansas goal will be anchored by Williams who has accumulated a 1.09 goals against average during her first two seasons. She has etched her name high on several of Arkansas' career goalkeeping lists. Williams stands third on the all-time shutouts list and fourth on the wins list. Behind her are Kendal Winston and redshirt freshman Brittany Hudson. Winston made one appearance last season and made two saves against Nicholls State.

Britni Williams has started all 39 matches of her Razorback career and has posted a 1.09 goals against average in that time.

"We definitely have a tremendous amount of depth at the (goalkeeping) position," Aubry said. "Having three goalkeepers that can jump in at any time is certainly that benefits us as a program. The fact that they train together and put each other in a competitive training environment is a treasure.

"I think Brittany Hudson is knocking on the door. She has a tremendous amount of ability to make a big-time, game-changing save for us, so as we work with all three of our goalkeepers—Williams, Hudson and Winston—to become more consistent, we've got a lot of talent to work with in all three."

DEFENDERS

Arkansas' backline was hit hard by departures from last year's team. Lauren Hallauer (pictured) is the top returning defender for the team. She made 19 starts last season and contributed offensively with a goal and two assists. She and Sam Bolton are the only two players on the current roster to play at the defender position last season. The Razorbacks will turn to Schleif and sophomore Kailey Anders as they transition from their past offensive positions to the backline. Redshirt freshman Anna Heintz and true freshman Kate Singleton are also pegged to bolster the Razorback defense.

"This is the position where we have the least depth this season just because we don't have a lot of defenders on our team," Aubry said. "The defenders we do have, however, are rock solid. Certainly, Lauren Hallauer is going to be an anchor for us at center back. She's a tremendous athlete and has an unbelievable will to learn. She stays focused 110 percent of the time, so to have a kid like that anchoring your backline is very good. We certainly have Sam Bolton who can step in as another center back.

"We had great success (during the spring) with Kailey Anders and Kim Schleif at outside back for us. Those two give us an element of attack we really love. They are both never-say-die kids. They are going to scrap, fight and claw to keep anything out of the goal for us, but they also have this innate attacking sense about them. They are also unbelievably athletic. What they can do, physically, on the field is hard to touch, not just in the SEC, but in a national prospective."

MIDFIELDERS

The strength of Arkansas' team will come from its midfield position. With 12 players listed as a midfielder, the Razorbacks will have plenty of options to rely on whether they are playing with three, four or five across the middle of the field. Paulsen and Wentz will provide the senior leadership at the position which will be strengthened, in part, by juniors O'Connor, Camille Flores (pictured), who had a stand-out spring, and Beth McVean. The rest of the midfielders are Allison, Campbell, Pesek, Powell, Tidwell, and Zika and redshirt sophomore Erin Moskos.

"This is the position where we have the most depth and there's no doubt about it that these midfielders will be the engine of the team," Aubry said. "For us to have that amount of depth there, we'll be able to sub in the middle of the field at will this season and not skip a beat. We'll make substitutions and the kids coming off the bench will in no way be of a lighter weight than those kids that started.

"This spring, Camille Flores was shining for us. You have to throw Beth McVean in that category, too. We're excited to have Erin Moskos back as she didn't play last year because of an injury. She had an unbelievable spring. We've got Tara Zika coming in and we have Chelsea Tidwell who is small but not to be disconcerted because of her size. She's an unbelievably skilled player that is a true center midfielder that can just run the show and be the quarterback. She's going to do well there as she learns our system and how we want to play. Kelsey Allison is a tremendous athlete that will score some goals for us this year."

FORWARDS

With a deep group playing behind them at midfield, the Razorback forwards should expect to have more opportunities to produce big plays and goals. Since day one, the Arkansas coaching staff has impressed upon its team the importance of having the courage to turn and face the goal. With the experienced leadership at the position of Moffett and Pastor, the forward group will be important in the development of this team. The two veteran forwards will be joined up top by Chandler, Ally Atkins (pictured), Rachel Carlson and Daniella O'Shea.

"All spring, we've drilled into our forwards this sense of courage," Aubry said. "It takes a tremendous amount of courage to face the goal with the ball because you always want to use your body to protect the ball and your safety is to play the ball back. There's certainly a time and place for that and we don't go forward with everything but we want to recognize those times when we can get forward and we want to have the courage to do it.

"We talk courage on a soccer aspect and, as anything, it translates into how we want them to be as people. We talk about doing the hard thing in attacking on a soccer field—facing the fear of possibly making a mistake, facing the fear of someone stripping you of the ball—and the translation in that is we want them to have the courage to do the right things when they go into the classroom or out socially. They have to have the courage to stand up and do what's right, just as they would on the soccer field. We've stretched them in both ways and that's how we've united. That's what we want to be known for in this program."

The Razorbacks

2008: Kat Moffett made a career-high 12 starts during her junior campaign with appearances in 16 matches total. She broke into the scoring column with a career-high four points on a pair of goals against Nicholls State, the first two-goal performance of her Razorback career. The two first-half scores, in the 14th and 35th minutes, got Arkansas started on its way to the 7-0 win. Moffett was credited with the assist on the team's goal against Mississippi State during the opening weekend of conference play. Also a strong contributor in the classroom, Moffett was named to the 2008 SEC Fall Academic Honor Roll and earned a spot on the ESPN the Magazine Academic All-District third team.

2007: Moffett appeared in 19 games and logged five starts during her sophomore season. She tallied her first goal on a free kick in the 52nd minute at Louisiana Tech after coming off the bench. Moffett added her second goal of the year, an eight-yard shot, in Arkansas' 5-0 win over Jacksonville St. She made her first start against No. 6 Tennessee, which started a string of five consecutive starts.

2006: Moffett came in with impressive credentials, and she did not disappoint her coaches as she led the Razorback freshmen in both goals and points. Playing in all 19 contests, Moffett started eight games and scored three goals and added a pair of assists for eight points. She scored her first career goal in her first game against Missouri State and added to her total in Razorback victories against Mississippi State and Alabama.

CLUB: On the club pitch, Moffett played for several squads but in 2006, her senior season, was instrumental in the Sting '87s march to nationals.

McKinney North HS: She was one of two athletes in the country to be named both an NSCAA/Adidas All-American and scholar All-American in 2006. The district's newcomer of the year in 2003, she took district MVP honors as sophomore and senior, while nabbing state MVP honors in her final season. These accolades go hand-in-hand with her multiple all-county, region and district awards. During her career, Moffett scored more than 80 goals and 50 assists.

Personal: Born on Jan. 12, 1988, Moffett is the daughter of Sam and Sandra Moffett. She has an older sister, Kristin, and is majoring in broadcast journalism.

2008: One of six players to start all 19 games, Kathleen Paulsen was the team's third-leading scorer from her midfield position with a career-high four goals. She posted her first goal of the season in spectacular fashion, a game-winning bicycle kick from eight yards out at the 80:59 mark against Oral Roberts that lifted Arkansas to the 4-3 victory. She added a second-half goal against Jacksonville State and an assist in the Razorbacks' 7-0 win over Nicholls State. Her final two goals of the season came during SEC play, in wins against Ole Miss and Kentucky. Against the Rebels, she notched the team's first goal of the conference season, an 18-yard shot off the crossbar and into the back of the net, to help Arkansas to its first win over Ole Miss since 1996. HEAD COACH
FIRST SEASON
NORTHWESTERN, '98

Erin Aubry enters her first season as the head soccer coach at the University of Arkansas. Aubry was named the seventh head coach of the University of Arkansas soccer program on Dec. 23, 2008. During the previous four years, she served as the head coach at Morehead State University in Morehead, Ky. Aubry inherits a Razorback team that finished last season with an 11-8 record, tying the school record for wins in a season.

"It is an honor to be named the head coach of the soccer program at the University of Arkansas," Aubry said. "I am excited about the opportunity to return to the Southeastern Conference as the head coach of a promising program at an outstanding institution. I would like to thank Jeff Long and the University of Arkansas for giving me this tremendous opportunity.

"Our goal from day one will be to build a program that is successful in developing student-athletes in the classroom and on the soccer field. We will work towards returning the Razorbacks to the SEC Tournament and competing in the NCAA Tournament. I am looking forward to working with our staff and our student-athletes to accomplish those goals."

During the 2008 season at Morehead State, Aubry guided the program to uncharted heights. "The University of Arkansas is an amazing place that takes care of its student-athletes in an unbelievable way, so for me to be a part of that, is truly a dream come true for me. I'm excited to be here and excited to be a Razorback."

"This is a program that has the necessary tools already and we need to make sure we're using those tools in the correct way. We need to pull out a little personality in order to establish a team identity. We're going to talk a lot about courage: courage to take chances, courage to go to goal, courage to score goals."

"The Southeastern Conference is definitely one of the premier conferences in the nation for women's soccer. I learned that right off the bat, (as an assistant coach) at Auburn. Continuing on to Ole Miss (as an assistant coach) to see that at a higher level, taking a program to the NCAA Tournament a couple of times."

With a 2-1 triumph over Vanderbilt (Oct. 19), the Razorback soccer team equaled the program mark with 11 wins overall and four victories in SEC play. The 11 wins were the most by Arkansas since the 1996 season and the four-win tally is the program's highest conference total since 1999. The win was also the team's first against the Commodores since the 2004 season. Arkansas has now won 11 games in 1991, 1996 and 2008, and tallied four SEC wins in 1996, 1999 and 2008.

Good start in the SEC

For just the second time in program history (1995), Arkansas started conference play with a 2-0 record. The Razorbacks opened SEC action by snapping an 11-game skid against Ole Miss with a 2-0 win on the road. Arkansas closed out the weekend with a 1-0 triumph over Mississippi State in Starkville. With the pair of wins, Arkansas ran its program-best winning streak to eight matches. Coincidentally, the 1995 club also opened league play with wins over the Rebels and Bulldogs.

Razorbacks end skid against Kentucky

Arkansas defeated Kentucky, 3-1, at Razorback Field (Oct. 17) to snap the Wildcats' 10-game unbeaten streak in the series between the two teams. It was the program's first win against Kentucky since the 1994 season. Arkansas' three goals were the highest total in conference play since a 5-0 victory over Alabama in 2006. Defender Lauren Hallauer scored her first career goal on a long ball into the box from just inside the midfield line in the 77th minute.

Nothing getting by

The Razorbacks recorded seven consecutive shutouts, besting the previous program mark set in 1987. The stretch began with a 4-0 victory over Jacksonville State, followed by shutout wins against Samford (1-0, 20T), Austin Peay (1-0), Western Michigan (3-0), Nicholls State (7-0), Ole Miss (2-0) and Mississippi State (1-0). The Razorbacks outscored their opponents 19-0 during the seven-match streak. After a 4-3 win over Oral Roberts, the seven shutouts concluded Arkansas' program-best eight-match winning streak.

Down to the last game

Entering the final game of the 2008 season, an Oct. 31 match-up with LSU in Baton Rouge, the Razorbacks were one of three teams, with Alabama and Ole Miss, still eligible for the final two spots in the SEC Tournament. With the loss in its regular-season finale, Arkansas finished the season in ninth place in the SEC with a 4-7 conference mark.

Patterson recognized by NSCAA

Lindsay Patterson earned a spot on the 2008 National Soccer Coaches Association of America/adidas All-Central Region Team, one of four forwards named to the second team. It was the first all-region selection of an Arkansas player by the NSCAA since 1996. Patterson is the fifth Razorback soccer player honored by the NSCAA, joining Andie Hickman (1995-96), Alexis Hyrup (1995-96), Honey Marsh (1993-94) and Ruthie Miller (1991).

All-SEC accolades for Patterson

For the second time during her career, Lindsay Patterson earned second-team All-SEC honors. She finished the season as Arkansas' leading scorer with 15 points and a team-high six goals. The Lewisville, Texas, native is the sixth player in Arkansas soccer history to claim two All-SEC honors, joining Denise Brown (1993-94), Christina Burger (2005-06), Alexis Hyrup (1995-96), Honey Marsh (1993-94) and Erin Sampson (1999, 2002). Nineteen all-conference selections have been distributed among 13 players in program history.

SEC Offensive Player of the Week No. 1

Kelly O'Connor earned SEC Offensive Player of the Week honors (Sept. 8), Arkansas' first weekly offensive accolades from the conference since the 2004 season. O'Connor posted two goals and an assist in Arkansas' victories at the 2008 adidas Gamecock Classic. She had the first two-goal effort of her career in a 4-0 win over Jacksonville State. Against Samford, O'Connor had the assist on the game-winning goal against Samford.

SEC Offensive Player of the Week No. 2

Lindsay Patterson was named the SEC Offensive Player of the Week (Sept. 22) after a nine-point weekend in wins against Western Michigan and Nicholls State. After missing the first five contests of the season, Patterson tallied four goals and an assist in her first full weekend of action. She logged a career-high five points against Western Michigan and followed up with a pair of goals against Nicholls State, the fourth two-goal performance of her career.

2008 Review Notes

Patterson cracks goals scored top 10

During her final season in Cardinal and White, Lindsay Patterson moved into Arkansas' all-time goals scored top 10. She cracked the list with a second-half goal against Ole Miss in the SEC opener and settled into her current spot with a header in the first half against Alabama. Patterson scored 17 goals during her Razorback career, and is tied for ninth with Honey Marsh (1991-94).

Wilburn moves up career assist list

With an assist on a goal against Vanderbilt (Oct. 19), Abbey Wilburn moved into a tie for third place on the program's all-time assist list with 16 career helpers. She finished the season tied for the team lead with four assists. Wilburn is tied with four other players—Brittany Burns (1995-98), Kit Carson (1990-93), Honey Marsh (1991-94) and Ruthie Miller (1989-92)—on the all-time assist list.

Double-overtime triumph

Sophie Wentz knocked in a 12-yard shot at the 107:36 mark to seal the Razorbacks' 1-0 victory over Samford in the championship contest of the 2008 adidas Gamecock Classic in Jacksonville, Ala. Goalkeeper Britni Williams made a diving stop in the first overtime period to keep the Bulldogs off the scoreboard and preserve the tied score. Arkansas outshot Samford, 16-11, in the match, which featured 38 fouls and eight corner kicks.

Bicycle lifts Arkansas to victory

With the scored tied in the Razorbacks' match against Oral Roberts, Kathleen Paulsen made one of the most spectacular plays, scoring the game-winning goal via bicycle kick from eight yards out at the 80:59 mark. The play put Arkansas ahead, 4-3, and the club held on for the win. The game's second half featured two ties and two lead changes.

Anders scores first goal of career

Kailey Anders knocked in a 25-foot rocket against South Carolina (Oct. 26) to notch the first goal of her Razorback career. She closed out the season with another goal in the team's season finale to finish the year with two goals. Anders tied for the club lead with four assists during the season.

Step right up, freshman

For the third consecutive season, a Razorback freshman scored the team's first goal of the season. Nikki Crocco tucked the ball into the back of the net at the 71:43 mark of Arkansas' season opener at Missouri State. It was the Razorbacks' lone goal in a 1-0 victory. In 2007, Kelly O'Connor scored the season's first goal, while Kathleen Paulsen, in 2006, tallied Arkansas' first score during her freshman campaign.

Academic recognition from SEC

Sixteen Razorbacks were named to the 2008 SEC Fall Academic Honor Roll, the most of any soccer program in the conference. The honorees included Dani Alexander, Whitney Allison, Sam Bolton, Jackie Booker, Megan Fawley, Sarah Gwisdala, Beth McVean, Kat Moffett, Erin Moskos, Kelly O'Connor, Lindsay Patterson, Kathleen Paulsen, Kim Schleif, Rachel Smith, Sophie Wentz and Abbey Wilburn.

Moffett honored for work in classroom

Kat Moffett was selected to the 2008 ESPN the Magazine Academic All-District third team. As a journalism major, Moffett carried a 3.63 cumulative grade point average. She is the fifth Razorback—Holly Collins (2001), Lindsay Haywood (2001), Julie Williford (2003) and Allison Harris (2004-07)—recognized by CoSIDA for outstanding achievement in the classroom.

Booker awarded for service to NW Arkansas

Jackie Booker was recognized for her dedication to the Northwest Arkansas community and named to the 2008 Community Service Team, the sixth annual women's soccer list put together by the SEC. She was one of 11 soccer student-athletes around the league honored for service to their respective communities.

Arkansas Soccer History

The University of Arkansas has been a pioneer for women's sports throughout the past 30 years, and the Razorback soccer team is a shining example. Among the first varsity women's soccer teams in the country, Arkansas began varsity play in 1986, and has since earned the respect of the nation as one of the toughest places to play. Over the course of the past 20 years, there have been many significant firsts: the program's first victory on Sept. 21, 1986, at Texas A&M University; the Southeastern Conference's first Player of the Year; the SEC's first televised game and the construction of then-Lady'Back Field. But all pale in comparison to the personalities of the more than 150 women who have shaped Arkansas women's soccer into what it is today.

During their inaugural season in the fall of 1986, the Razorbacks played a 12-game schedule under its first head coach, Curtis Sergeant, against regional opponents from Texas and Missouri.

Arkansas turned things around in its second year of competition. Improving by leaps and bounds, the team posted a 10-8 record for its first winning season while posting six shutouts. The 1987 schedule also allowed the Razorbacks to not only play regional opponents, but also to travel as the team took its first significant road trip to the Sunshine State for a pair of matches in Boca Raton, Fla.

After two seasons of varsity play, the Razorbacks turned the program over to Kathy Ludwig prior to the 1988 season. An All-American during her playing days, Ludwig brought experience at the Division I level to Arkansas' program. Working with a large group of young players, Ludwig's first team struggled early, but surged during the second half of the 1988 season.

One of the things for which Ludwig will long be remembered was the recruitment of Ruthie Miller from Broken Arrow, Okla. and Molly Myers from Colorado Springs, Colo. The pair was instrumental in Arkansas' five-year run of non-losing seasons, beginning in 1989, and remains a major part of Arkansas' career record book.

Miller took over the career lead in scoring during her senior season and held the mark until 2003, while Myers was the first of a string of outstanding goalkeepers at Arkansas. She still holds the school records for career saves and shutouts.

Prior to the 1990 season, Marcia McDermott became the Razorbacks' third head coach, and her three-year stint is one of the most productive in Arkansas soccer history. During her time in Fayetteville, the Razorbacks won 26 matches and set the benchmark for wins in a season with 11 during the 1991 campaign.

During McDermott's tenure, Arkansas made another commitment to the soccer program when construction began on then-named Lady'Back Field on the corner of California and Sixth Street. At the time of its construction, it was the first collegiate soccer field used solely for the purpose of a women's team, and to this day, remains one of only a handful of such fields. The field was renamed as Razorback Field prior to the beginning of the 2008 season to reflect the merger of the formerly independent men's and women's athletic departments.

The off-season between the 1992 and 1993 seasons was a busy one for the Razorbacks. Former North Carolina standout Janet Rayfield was hired as the fourth coach of the soccer program, and the university announced it was joining the Southeastern Conference.

Both occurrences made waves throughout the nation, and Arkansas did not disappoint. The Razorbacks went 10-10 in Rayfield's first season, and then crushed Auburn on the way to the SEC Tournament championship game, where they lost in overtime to Vanderbilt.

The 1993 campaign was significant in what Arkansas was able to do against the SEC, but also in that it saw the construction of a field house at Razorback Field. The '93 club also produced the most prolific scoring output in Arkansas soccer history. Led by the tandem of Honey Marsh and Amy Van Laecke, Arkansas tallied 57 goals over its 20-game schedule, while conceding just 36.

Marsh's play throughout the season earned her the SEC's first Player of the Year award and first tournament MVP honor.

The 1994 season saw the Razorbacks play their first regular-season conference matches, then host the second SEC Tournament. Once again, Arkansas was strong in the post-season, advancing to the tournament semifinals before falling a second time to the Vanderbilt Commodores.

The SEC had a boom in 1995 as six teams joined the league, and Arkansas remained in the thick of the action. The Razorbacks earned their first SEC win in a 2-1 overtime victory over Mississippi State on Sept. 8, 1995, and saw goalkeeper Holly Smith emerge as the next standout player on Arkansas' roster. As the SEC continued to push women's sports into the limelight, Arkansas did its part by hosting the first televised match of SEC women's soccer at Razorback Field.

Arkansas' 1996 season was one of the best seasons in team history as it matched the program mark for wins in a season with 11 en route to claiming the SEC Western Division crown. Beginning the year 1-3-0, Arkansas rallied to win eight of its next 10 matches to put themselves at the top of the standings. At the SEC Tournament, Arkansas defeated Vanderbilt for the first time since joining the conference, then knocked off Georgia, 3-1, before falling to Florida in the double overtime of the championship game, 3-2.

The firsts continued for the soccer program in 1997 when Arkansas added lights to Razorback Field, allowing the team to host their first night match on their home pitch on Aug. 30, 1997.

Following the resignation of Rayfield after the 1998 season, Arkansas hired Alan Kirkup to take over the reins of the program. One of the winningest women's collegiate soccer coaches of all time, Kirkup brought a keen knowledge of the game to Arkansas which showed immediately during his first season. One of Kirkup's first duties included the recruitment of Pam Pesnell, the first Fayetteville, Ark., native to play for the Razorback soccer team, and then he focused on the team, which ended the 1999 season in a tie for first in the SEC West.

During the spring of 2009, Arkansas welcomed former players back to campus which featured an alumni match at Razorback Field.

Getting the most from his players, Kirkup took a group of unknown players and turned them into a group of force, especially at tournament time. At his first SEC Tournament, Kirkup started six freshmen against defending national champion Florida and held a 2-0 lead on the Gators after 10 minutes of play.

Kirkup's tutelage also led to the fall of nearly every Arkansas offensive record. Midfielder Holly Collins broke the Razorbacks' assist record in 2000 when she notched her 18th career helper and finished her career with 26 assists. Another Kirkup recruit, Julie Williford, broke Miller's marks for career goals and points, and became the first Razorback to eclipse the 100-point mark during a career.

In 2001, Razorback Field added stadium seating for 1,500 spectators, as well as press box and radio facilities. A facility-record 1,709 fans watched Arkansas play South Carolina on Oct. 12, 2001. Three games at Razorback Field have seen more than 1,000 fans.

The long line of strong goalkeeping continued for Arkansas with the play of Carrie Dillsaver, the program's all-time wins leader. During her senior season, she became the first Razorback keeper to post a sub-1.00 goals against average (0.91) and finished her time in Cardinal and White as the holder of five career marks.

The Gordon Henderson era of Razorback soccer began in the spring of 2004 and continued with a return to grass roots. Henderson focused on the team and community development, which translated to record crowds during his tenure. Seven of the top 10 attendance figures came during his five-year stay in Fayetteville.

Arkansas continued to build its reputation as a leader on the field and in the classroom as Williford became Arkansas' first Academic All-American in 2003. The firsts kept coming when Kim Schleif became the first Razorback soccer student-athlete named to the SEC All-Freshman team in 2006. Following the 2007 season, Allison Harris earned the Razorbacks' first SEC Scholar-Athlete of the Year honor. That same year, Harris also earned Academic All-American accolades.

Following the 2008 season, in which Arkansas equaled the program mark of four conference victories and 11 overall wins, Erin Aubry was named the seventh head coach in Razorback soccer history on Dec. 23, 2008.

With the installation of lights at its field, Arkansas played its first night game in 1997.

SEC Opponents in BOLD

Aerial view of Razorback Field

The University of Arkansas has always been proactive when it comes to women's intercollegiate athletics, and the lifespan of Razorback Field is a tribute to that stance. When it was constructed in 1992, the then-Lady'Back Field was the first collegiate soccer field in the country dedicated solely for the use of a women's team. To this day, it remains one of a handful of such fields.

With improvements planned following its construction, a field house was built to house locker rooms for both participating teams, and lights were erected to allow the Razorbacks to practice and play at any time.

Arguably, the best pitch in the Southeastern Conference, for facilities and playing surface, the field was the host of the 1994 SEC Tournament and the site of the first women's soccer match televised by the SEC.

Completed for the 1999 season were several improvements, including wrought-iron fencing around the field, a ticket booth and permanent professional-style players' benches.

Following the 1999 soccer campaign, construction of a new stadium to accommodate the growing fan base at Razorback Field began. The spring of 2001 saw the stadium expand to a 1,500-seat capacity, including chair-back seating for season-ticket holders as well as fully functional press facilities, television and radio booths and a VIP hospitality area.

Southeastern Conference

The Southeastern Conference has continued its rise as one of the top conferences in women's soccer.

The 2008 women's soccer season reaffirmed the SEC's prominence in the country. Six teams from the SEC were invited to the NCAA Tournament. Auburn, Florida, Georgia, LSU, South Carolina and Tennessee all made the 64-team field. The six teams combined for a record of 3-6 with the Gators advancing to the third round. The SEC now has a 44-53-8 (.457) NCAA Tournament record in 56 appearances.

SEC women's soccer will begin its 17th season in the year of 2009 deeply rooted in the national scene of collegiate soccer. Since the SEC initiated women's soccer as a varsity sport in 1993, the sport's popularity has grown through the country and especially in the Southeast. A defining point in the SEC's women's soccer success came in 1995 when FOX Sports South broadcasted the SEC Tournament Championship match between Alabama and Kentucky on a tape-delayed basis, signifying the first appearance of an SEC women's soccer match on television. Southeastern Conference women's soccer continued to grow over the next couple of years as the conference made a name for itself nationally. In 1998, the SEC had its breakout season with Florida winning the conference's first NCAA title in women's soccer in just the program's fourth year of existence. The league led the nation with six NCAA Tournament teams that year, an accomplishment which firmly inserted the SEC as one the major conferences in women's soccer. The SEC also made bigger strides in its television coverage with three regular season matches and the SEC Tournament championship match shown live on the SEC-TV package. In 2003, the SEC Soccer Tournament moved to a neutral site in Orange Beach, Alabama, signifying the growth of the sports' popularity. In 2006, SEC-TV's women's soccer coverage was increased to four regular-season matches, in addition to the SEC Tournament championship match.

The Southeastern Conference enters a new era with its unprecedented television agreement, and in conjunction with ESPN, will feature a live fall television lineup for SEC soccer and volleyball on ESPNU. This marks the first time SEC soccer and volleyball will be featured on ESPNU in a regular lineup. In addition, the league will feature other regional coverage, expanding its coverage by almost triple that of previous years.

That incremental growth, combined with increasing exposure on the national and regional scene, has SEC women's soccer looking to blossom to new heights in the year 2009 and beyond.

- Florida's Lauren Hyde and Megan Kerns along with Auburn's Allison Whitworth were named to NSCA Scholar All-America third team. The SEC had six schools receive NSCAA/adidas College Team Academic Awards (teams which maintain a GPA of 3.0 or higher) - Arkansas, Auburn, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina and Vanderbilt.

- Florida's Ameera Abdullah was named Second Team All-America by the NSCAA in 2008 and LSU's Malorie Rutledge was selected Third Team NSCAA All-America. Rutledge along with Florida's Megan Kerns were both third team pick on the Soccer Buzz All-America teams.

- The Southeastern Conference placed 14 players on NSCAA All-Region squads. The SEC placed two athletes on first teams, four on second teams and eight on a third team. LSU's Malorie Rutledge was named to the Central Region first team. Florida's Ameera Abdullah was named to the Southeast Region's first team.

- The SEC placed four players on the Soccer Buzz Freshman All-America team. Auburn's Katy Frierson was a first team pick. Florida's Tahni Annis was a second team member. Jazmyne Avant of Florida and Mo Isom of Florida were third team choices.

- The SEC has had at least two teams advance to postseason play for 13 of the last 14 years. Ten of the league's teams (Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, LSU, Ole Miss, South Carolina, Tennessee and Vanderbilt) have made at least one NCAA Tournament appearance since 1994. Six teams (Auburn, Florida, Georgia, LSU, South Carolina and Tennessee) advanced to the 2008 NCAA Tournament.

- The SEC also had two CoSIDA/ESPN the Magazine Academic All-Americans, 14 CoSIDA/ESPN the Magazine Academic All-District picks, three Top Drawer National Team of the Season members and one Top Drawer All-Rookie Team selections.
